On March 19th, 2020, a state of emergency was declared in New Brunswick. There are Public Health measures, closures of businesses and restrictions that all residents must follow. These efforts will contribute to slow the introduction and spread of COVID-19 in New Brunswick.

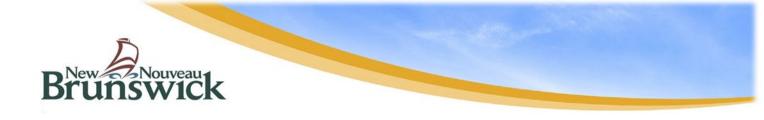

On March 24th, 2020 New Brunswick implemented restrictions for all travellers who are arriving from outside the province. This includes interprovincial/Territorial and international travel. At this time exemptions are being made for certain individuals, but this is subject to change. These exemptions are to allow the continued movement of goods and the ongoing delivery of essential services.

 - keep at least 2 metres between yourself and other people;
 - keep interactions brief;

The following Travellers are Exempted:

Workers who are essential to the movement of goods and people. This would apply to:

- healthy people who must cross the border to go to work, including health care providers and critical infrastructure workers.
- New Brunswick residents who cross the provincial border daily to attend work.
- Residents of Campobello Island who must cross the border to access essential goods or services.

Workers who need to travel to work in a neighboring province, should travel directly to their place of employment and then back to their home in New Brunswick. Workers are advised to avoid older people and those with a weakened immune system or underlying medical condition(s) who are at a higher risk of developing severe disease.

Workers in these sectors should practice social distancing (maintain a distance of at least 2 metres from others), closely self-monitor, should they exhibit any symptoms they should self-isolate and immediately call Tele-care 8-1-1 for advice. It is recommended that employers in these sectors conduct active daily monitoring of their staff for COVID-19 symptoms (i.e. checking for cough, fever, or shortness of breath).
